Hart Outlines Plan For B.C. Tax Relief, But No Repudiation

g Secret Commissions Paid out of B.C. Treasury in Bond Deals, He Charges

housand People Hear Speakers

d to Income Tax Payers and and Holders in Cities Proposed By Ex-Minister

Before an audience of nearly 1,000 persons, that packed every corner of the Chamber of Commerce and stood during the whole of the meeting jamming the side aisles and the rear of the auditorium, John Hart, former B.C. Minister of Finance, and now one of the four Liberal candidates in this city, revealed that Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance under Premier Tolmie, distributed a total of $150,000 of the money of the people of this province in the form of special commissions to brokers and bankers in connection with the flotation in London some months ago of £1,500,000, or approximately $7,250,000, of British Columbia bonds.

The audience, which was the largest the campaign so far in Victoria, listened with amazement and in silence to Mr. Hart detail the figures of Mr. Jones' distribution. Altogether, Finance Minister Jones had five separate commissions to five cities in Canada and in England, Mr. Hart said. First, he paid $5,000 to his bankers here "for introducing him to a Toronto house." Next, he paid $37,500 to a Toronto house "for introducing him to a London house." Next, he paid $18,500 to a London house "for introducing him to an underwriting syndicate." Next, he gave the underwriting syndicate $75,000. And that, he said, was the whole of it. He paid $18,500 to the stockbrokers, making a total of $150,000.

"Contrasted with this, not at any time during the Liberal regime was there one cent of commission paid in connection with the sale of bonds," Mr. Hart said. "We had the policy of selling bonds to the highest bidder, but the present government has been buying commission to some of their friends."

ELIEF FOR TAXPAYERS

Mr. Hart dealt with the financial condition of the province, and then suggested measures of relief he proposed should be taken up, if the liberals are returned to power. As for the preposterous British Columbia repudiating its debt, Mr. Hart said: "I am often asked, 'What do you think of the chances of repudiation?' My reply is that there is no such rank in the Liberal platform as repudiation. I do not believe the financial situation of the province is serious, but he time is now for a consideration of reduction in interest charges, and such reduction must be made by all. I make such a prediction and am confident it will be generally accepted by the people across the Dominion. I do not believe the taxpayers of Canada can stand the strain that has been placed upon them."

As a way of effecting the required reduction in interest charges, Mr. Hart suggested that the province might go to the Dominion and ask for credit to the amount of $175,000,000 to cover the present debt of British Columbia. He proposed that the province be loaned to the Dominion at a rate of three per cent, or less. Then the province could exchange on the basis of such a loan the bonds now in the hands of taxpayers.

Relief for taxpayers was also proposed by Mr. Hart. He suggested that the income tax be reduced by the sale of the province's lands, and that the revenue be used to reduce the tax.

TO HELP CITY LAND OWNERS

Mr. Hart also dealt with provincial aid to the municipalities, telling how, when he was Minister of Finance under Premier Oliver, it had been established upon this basis: fifty per cent. of the liquor profits, one-third of the motor tax and all of the pari-mutual tax. Under this, in 1920 the municipalities received from the province $1,400,000, and this increased until in the year 1928-29 it amounted to $6,000,000. Then the Tolmie government came to power and proceeded to cut down the aid to the municipalities by limiting their share of the liquor profits to $1,000,000, placing the burden of one-half of the mothers' pensions, amounting to $600,000 a year, upon the municipalities, and then, last year, finally taking away from them all the liquor profits and the pari-mutual tax.

"Then after the Tolmie government had done this, they appointed a commission to report to them why they did it," Mr. Hart went on.

He declared that the provincial government must do something for the municipalities. But whatever was done, he proposed it would be on the basis of requiring the municipalities to reduce by a like amount their taxation on land, so that owners of land would be directly benefited by the aid from the province.

OUT OF POLITICS; MAY LEAVE CITY

HON. S. L. HOWE

The name of Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, who was elected as a Conservative for Point Grey in the 1928 election, was absent from the nominations completed yesterday. Mr. Howe had declined to state his political plans before, stating they would be learned on nomination day. Mr. Howe, who some time ago was made honorary colonel of the sixteenth Canadian Scottish, may leave Victoria when his term as member of the cabinet expires.

Only Three Members Of Last Legislature Loyal To Government

Two Conservatives of Thirty-five Elected in 1928 Running With Premier Tolmie

Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, Drops Out of Politics

When tabulations were completed yesterday it was shown that 222 candidates will battle for the forty-seven seats in the British Columbia legislature. Candidates from whom B.C. electors will make their choice on November 2 come under eleven different headings, with the Liberal Party the only one to have a candidate for every seat.

The classification of candidates is as follows: Liberals, 47; C.C.F., 46; Non-Partisan Group, 38; Independent, 19; Unionists, 13; Independent C.C.F., 8; Labor, 6; Conservatives, 4; Socialists, 4; and Independent Labor, 1.

Upon the public's choice of forty-seven candidates depends whether the next legislature will be a mixture of many parties, or whether one group will be in control, whether the long campaign of the Liberals will restore them to power, whether the Non-Partisan Group, declaring for a Union Government, will appear, or whether the Independent C.C.F. will win.

Whether Premier Tolmie will continue to lead the Liberals, or whether he will place himself in the hands of those who favor a Unionist administration, whether Independents will elect sufficient to

Parents Vote Against Longer Lunch Period

Proposal For Extra Fifteen Minutes Heavily Beaten in Poll

Would Have Meant Starting Earlier, Or Finishing School Later

By an overwhelming vote, parents of children in grades four to eight of the Victoria public schools, have decided against lengthening the daily lunch hour by fifteen minutes.

Results of a poll taken recently were announced this morning by George H. Deane, municipal inspector.

Approximately 71 per cent of the votes cast were in favor of retaining the one-hour luncheon period, he stated. Of those who favored the change, some would have added the fifteen minutes at the end of the day and some at the beginning.

The poll was taken following con-

GRAIN COMING FOR ELEVATOR

R. D. Purdy, Alberta Wheat Pool Manager, Says Grain Here in Two Weeks

Shipments Will Continue to Be Delivered Until Ogden Point Plant Full

To check over the Ogden Point elevator and arrange for the reception of grain at the local plant, R. D. Purdy, general manager of the Alberta Wheat Pool, Calgary, arrived in the city to-day. With him is J. Bennett, manager of the pool's elevator terminals at Vancouver.

Within the next two weeks the first of the seasonal wheat shipments should be delivered in Victoria," said Mr. Purdy when seen at the Empress Hotel this morning after inspecting the elevator in the outer harbor.

"Within the next few days we expect to have grain moving from Alberta over the Canadian National tracks and the shipments will continue to arrive here at short intervals until

NEW RULES FOR EXPORT BACON

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—All exporters of bacon from Canada in the form of Wilshire sides, must be registered in the near future. This was announced from the Department of Agriculture to-day. This is to improve grading of bacon going to the British market.

An order-in-council has been passed giving the department authority to enforce such a regulation under the Livestock and Live Products Act.

Under the new regulations, the market in the United Kingdom will be made under the supervision of the experts of the livestock branch. It is hoped in this way a better selection can be made of the type of product suitable to the demand.

Up to the end of August Canada had shipped 49,726,500 pounds of bacon and hams to the United Kingdom this year, approximately double the corresponding period last year. However, Canadian exporters have had to take a considerably lower price than obtained by products from other countries. Last week Danish bacon brought 78 to 81 shillings for long hams, while Canadian bacon brought 65 to 72.

It is contended here the best of the Canadian bacon is going to Britain, and that the quality is better than that of any other country. The supply is largely responsible for the spread in price. By having officials of the livestock branch working with the packers it is expected there will be greater uniformity and better all-round quality.

STATED BOMB MAY HAVE SENT PLANE TO DOOM

Experts Investigate to Determine If Seven Persons Murdered in Indiana

Stains on Wreckage Are Being Studied

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Stains, which investigators believe might have been caused by a time bomb, have been found on the wreckage of an air transport liner that crashed last Tuesday evening, killing seven persons near Chester, Ind.

Investigators for the Department of Commerce brought fragments of the wreckage to a Chicago laboratory for examination. The fragments, including small pieces of the metal fuselage and the side of a bottle, bore stains which investigators believed were caused by gun powder or nitroglycerin.

A federal official said, holes torn in the fuselage and wreckage in the baggage compartment of the huge air liner also indicated a terrific explosion had sent the plane crashing to earth as it speeded from Cleveland to Chicago with passengers and air mail.

GOLD STRIKE IN THE ROCKIES

ULM PLANE AT ATHENS TO-DAY

Athens, Oct. 13.—Flight-Lieut. Charles T. P. Ulm, attempting to beat the seven-day record for a flight from England to Athens, landed here this afternoon. He had covered the 1,670 miles from Feltham, England, in fourteen hours and fifty minutes.

The three co-pilots are Jack Allen and P. G. Taylor, both like Ulm, Australian pilots, and John Edwards, twenty-three, London ship's officer.

Germany Boycotted Now By U.S. Labor

Washington, Oct. 13.—A boycott was declared by the American Federation of Labor Convention to-day against goods and services supplied to Germany by the United States, which forbids free trade unionization.

The executive council had recommended simply a boycott of German-made goods and services. The boycott to continue until working people were allowed to organize and the "persecution of Jewish people" ceased.

But the resolution committee's report, adopted by the convention, said to boycott one nation without mentioning others might bring accusations the convention was unfriendly to a particular nationality.

The boycott, the convention agreed, "is not intended to be restricted to use against the unfair and cruel practices of the German government only, but also against any other government under similar circumstances."

BUSINESS IN U.S. GROWING

New York, Oct. 13.—Dun and Bradstreet to-day said the "most impressive pick-up of the fall season" occurred this week in general trade movements.

"The first full week of seasonable weather," stated the agency's review, "brought reports from all parts of the country of sharp increases in retail distribution, particularly pronounced in rural communities, with the strong drive of the 'Buy Now' campaign proving a powerful stimulus to the spread of the demand for merchandise."

TOKIO STOCKS FALL ON RUMORS

Tokio, Oct. 13.—As a result of rumors certain Japanese army units had been ordered to Manchuria because of the Russo-Japanese tension, subsequently denied and apparently unfounded, key stocks on the Tokio Stock Exchange dropped seven yen (currently about $3.29) in a late afternoon flurry to-day.

It was believed Machado and his entourage were en route to United States by automobile.

REBELS MARCH ON BANGKOK

Siamese Prince at Head of Rebel Army Seizes Airdrome

Bangkok, Oct. 13.—Provincial rebel forces were reported marching to-day toward this city, one of them under command of Prince Bovarade, a member of the royal family and at one time Siam's defence minister.

No casualties thus far have been announced. Martial law ruled in the capital, which was quiet, as was the area immediately surrounding it.

Prince Bovarade's force yesterday afternoon seized the Communion airdrome, headquarters of the Royal Aeronautic Service. All telegraph and railway services were paralyzed. Press censorship immediately was enforced, and martial law proclaimed.

The executive council had recommended simply a boycott of German-made goods and services. The boycott to continue until working people were allowed to organize and the "persecution of Jewish people" ceased.

Berlin Is Ready To Quit Conference If Force Is Tried, Says Spokesman

With Disarmament Conference Scheduled To Be Resumed Next Monday, Powers Are Told Hitler Government Expects To Be Treated on Basis of Equality

Geneva, Oct. 13.—A German spokesman to-day said any attempt to haul up Germany and ask her to sign on the dotted line on a disarmament decision imposed by others would be followed by withdrawal of Germany from the conference, and perhaps from the League of Nations.

The spokesman voiced the belief Germany would remain in the conference if allowed to negotiate on the basis of equality, but said the nation refused to be treated as a participant short of all initiative.

Admitting the gravity of the situation, he said he rebelled against allegations Germany was seeking to re-arm when all she wanted was a few defensive armaments in order to begin the suitable equipment of a transformed Reichswehr (army).

Premier Rests in Home City After Twelve Speeches; Will Speak There Monday

Gives It as His Belief Worst of Depression Is Past

Edmonton, Oct. 13.—After traveling 3,000 miles and delivering twelve speeches in four days, interspersed with many private interviews, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett turned to-day to his home city of Calgary for a brief rest before returning to Ottawa.

He probably will make his promised Calgary address Monday and on his return trip to Ottawa he will make at least one speech at Regina and is expected to spend a day in Winnipeg.

Yesterday evening Mr. Bennett completed the first part of his western speaking tour before the third Edmonton audience he had faced since his arrival yesterday morning. Again he defended the tariff raising that marked his first acts after attaining office, emphasizing the upward revision had been an emergency measure designed to protect Canadian workmen and Canadian markets.

Courthouse at Nanaimo Crowded at Opening of Ladysmith Case To-day

Three Young Poulain Children Among Witnesses Called To-day

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Oct. 13.—The Nanaimo courthouse was crowded this morning when Louis Poulain appeared at the assizes to answer a charge of murdering Robert Douglas Syme at Ladysmith on September 7. The following jury was selected after ten had been challenged: T. W. Martindale, Foreman; C. F. Bryant, W. Pitts, W. Jackson, W. Sherwin, G. Blackburn, J. C. McGregor, A. E. Fowler, F. W. Woollett, W. Halliday, A. Watson and W. Martin. F. S. Cunliffe is prosecuting and A. Leighton, defending.

G. H. Fethwick, engineer, produced a plan of the scene of the murder.

Dr. D. F. Hanington said he received a call and went to Poulain's home and saw the body lying on the left side of the street, and the Poulain family was standing higher up the street. Witness said he saw the five men speeding along the streets when he broke the glass in a fire alarm and pushed a letter into the box. Police and firemen finally accepted the man's explanation.

Nearly Three-quarters Of Tax Levy Collected

Payments Up to Tuesday Total $1,335,007 on Current Civic Account

Indications Are That Estimate of 81 Per Cent Will Be Reached

Nearly 72 per cent of the current civic tax levy has been paid in to the treasury so far, according to figures released by D. A. MacDonald, the city comptroller, this morning.

This leaves the city with less than $170,000 to collect before the end of the year in order to reach its estimated income of 81 per cent of the levy.

Anything over this amount will provide an opportunity for a surplus. The budget of this year is estimated to be within the margin.

On October 10, collections totaled $1,285,007.75 on the current account, the comptroller stated.

The levy on the general account is $1,748,638, and for franchise taxes $111,407, making a total levy of $1,860,045. The actual percentage collected is 71.76.

The budget provides for an 81 per cent collection, or $1,501,533, so that the amount received so far is just $100,000 short of the estimate.

In view of the fact that the penalties on unpaid taxes were changed this year, making only 1 per cent application at the beginning of October as a means of relief to the taxpayers, the comptroller expressed confidence that the estimate will be reached by the end of the year.

MORE SETTLERS DECLARED NEEDED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Plea for an intensive campaign for United Kingdom immigrants to be settled on Canadian farms was made to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention here yesterday by General M. L. Hornby, Lethbridge, Alta.
"It is beyond argument Canada needs more people before she can become fully prosperous, and there are many reasons why an early increase in our population, particularly in the prairie provinces, would be beneficial to the Dominion," he said.
General Hornby said he was not advocating an immediate immigration plan. "What I am advocating is that the essential preparatory measures should be taken in hand without delay so we may be ready to act immediately when immigration into Canada is resumed."
The basic difficulty with agriculture, he said, was under-population, not over-population.

The appeal came from Edwin A. Strome and his wife, who asked the donations be sent to George Holden and Hugh Taylor at Galtstad.
"Most of all we need clothes," said Mr. Strome in describing the plight of people of the district. "Even if they are a bit worn and have the odd hole we can fix them up."

Editor of Financial Post Asserts Canada Never Made Money From War

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Peace, migration of men and women, reduction of taxation and governmental costs, and solution of Canada's railway problem were held essential to the Dominion's prosperity in an address yesterday evening by Floyd S. Chalmers, editor of The Financial Post, at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Chalmers, who held a growing conviction existed, based on very definite evidence, that world recovery had set in, declared Canada had never made money out of war.

"The propaganda from Europe preaching to us that war is inevitable is increasing," he said. "From past experience we should know war is being assiduously propagated by those who make money out of war. In the long run Canada's prosperity depends on peace and only on peace."

MONEY STANDARD
Restoration of an international monetary standard, he continued, should effectively restore world trade, a development in which Canada must benefit as a great exporting country.

"For genuine prosperity then, we shall require the restoration of world trade and a general world rise in prices."

Mr. Chalmers said he believed Canada would have to count on getting a large measure of her new capital abroad.

"The capital we shall require," he proceeded, "will be two-fold in character. 'We must make Canada attractive for migrating dollars and migrating men.'"

TAXATION REDUCTION
He held the burden of taxation and governmental costs must be lessened greatly, a consideration involving a new approach to the problem of the individual and the state.

"There must be complete abandonment of many fields of enterprise and service by governments. We must recognize Canada has gone Socialist to a remarkable degree and a further tendency in that direction would not make our country attractive to foreign capital."

Mr. Chalmers held it essential there be discovered the final solution of the Dominion's railway problem, and added:

"I wonder if we must not in this country give assurance of ample opportunity for private enterprise and individual initiative. . . . In a world where the few foundations of democratic institutions are being raised to rear new structures of dictatorship, Canada and the other British nations have a glorious opportunity to stand out as examples of nations where personal freedom and personal responsibility to the state are held to be of some importance."

SHAW ASSERTS HITLER RIGHT

Dramatist Draws Comparison Between Attitude of Japan and Germany

Associated Press
London, Oct. 13.—George Bernard Shaw, in a literary tea party yesterday evening with a speech in which he declared:
"Hitler is perfectly right—he is right up to the hilt."
The far ends of the world figured in Mr. Shaw's address as he paralleled the types of patriotism in Japan and Germany.

"Japan," he said, "has a race which believes it belongs to the family of God for the purpose of governing the rest of the world."
The dramatist asserted:
"Everybody in the east says Japan has nothing to do but stretch out her hand and they say she could take Hongkong, she could take Singapore. She would take the Hawaiian Islands from America if America would let her."

"East is East and West is West, is what we say. What we really mean is that we are the East and the East belongs to it."

PLUNDERING DISCOVERED

BIG ROUND-UP JAILS SEVEN

Seven Los Angeles Men Arrested For Counterfeiting and Disposing of Securities

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Oct. 13.—Federal and city detectives announced today they had seven men in custody in connection with a counterfeiting investigation. Yesterday evening they announced approximately $10,000 in counterfeit money had been found in a robbery a year ago, had been found in apartments occupied by the suspects.

The round-up came after an investigation of several months in which authorities had sought to trace the source of a flood of counterfeit $5 bills and the disposal of stolen securities.

The men were held on charges of conspiracy to counterfeit and possession of stolen property. They were apprehended in apartments in the downtown district. Four of the men claimed to be real estate operators, while a fifth said he was an oil promoter. Officers said the other two were ex-convicts.

Officers claimed approximately $1,000 in counterfeit bank notes and more than $25,000 in Kansas and Nebraska state and municipal securities, also negotiable, and some other bonds, the identity of which they declined to reveal, had been discovered.

U.S. BANKING INQUIRY

Having resumed its investigation of stock transactions and investment banking, the United States Senate Banking and Currency Committee is expected to call as witnesses Albert Wiggin, former Chase National Bank head, upper right, and Bernard Baruch, financial consultant of the United States presidents, lower right. CONCILIATION MOVES SLOWLY

President Roosevelt Drives Hard For Settlement of Mine Area Troubles

By Sam Robertson, Canadian Press

New York, Oct. 13.—Hopes for peace in western Pennsylvania's strike-bound coal fields seemed brighter today, with President Roosevelt driving hard for conciliation.

But coal operators of western Kentucky and an important steel operator of West Virginia, pressed for unionization, were challenging the conciliatory powers of the United States government.

A government spokesman said privately he believed the matter could be straightened away without recourse to legal steps or use of "formal force."

When Senator Wagner, as chairman of the national labor board of the NLRB, summoned the Kentucky mine owners to Washington for a hearing on their refusal to deal with the United Mine Workers and insistence on recognizing only independent miners' unions, only one showed up.

His redheaded face revealing his inner feelings, Senator Wagner told newspapermen the operators would be required to appear. What they lacked, he said, was the authority of the President.

REQUEST, REJECTED

The Wierston Steel Company of Wierston, W. Va., also rejected a labor board request that settlement of its strike be left to Wagner's conciliators.

Optimism over the prolonged strike in Pennsylvania, affecting 75,000 coal diggers for steel companies, came with the operators' willingness to grant conditional recognition to the check-off. Under the check-off, Miners' Union dues are reduced from their pay envelopes by the mine owners.

But a question mark was placed over the possibility of settlement by operators reserving the right to maintain open shop. Their workers, they maintained, should be free to join or not to join any union. Whether this programme would be acceptable to union leaders was unknown.

NEW RAYS TO PROLONG LIFE

Associated Press
Chicago, Oct. 13.—A death ray, not to destroy life, but to prolong it, is visualized by Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn.

"We will soon make greater use of the knowledge we now have of the electrical activity of bacteria by learning to destroy them with opposing death-dealing waves of long or short X-rays or various forms of electric waves developed for this purpose," he said in an address before the American Medical Association yesterday.

Dr. Mayo, who is 65, said he expected to live another 20 years, and with it the physical nature of mind and personality.

Georges Bouchard, Liberal M.P. for Kamouraska, Que., above, in a recent speech urged a system of gift land to settlers, with the responsibility of improvement to be incumbent on the farmer, and financial assistance in the early stage to be the responsibility of the government.

DOCTORS OPPOSE TAX DEMAND

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Oct. 13.—Doctors engaged in the eye, ear, nose and throat branch of the profession intimated to civil authorities yesterday they might no longer provide free services to the city's indigents except in life or death emergencies.

This situation has arisen because of the efforts of the civil authorities to collect city professional tax from the doctors. In a letter signed by nineteen members of that branch of the Vancouver Medical Association, civil authorities were warned that insistence on collection of the tax would result in discontinuance of free work.

STARS FIGHT SALARY CUTS

No Pay Fixing Board Under NRA, Say Hollywood Actors and Actresses

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 13.—Two film-land guilds—the screen actors and screen writers—will meet together Sunday night to discuss what Eddie Cantor terms "dangerous and harmful provisions" in the proposed code for the industry.

Cantor, president of the Actors' Guild, said any attempt to include a salary-fixing board in the code provisions under the N.R.A. would be met by a walkout of actors and actresses.

"The actor always has been the target of attack when it comes to salary," said Cantor. "Little do people realize that although an actor may make $2,000 a week, he works only eight or ten weeks of the year and his career is short-lived."

About two score Hollywood actors and actresses, most of whom are members of the Actors' Guild, rate "headline" pay salaries running all the way from $3,000 to $10,000 weekly. There are about 200 other players, featured actors and lesser stars, and perhaps fifty directors, whose average weekly wage is in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Several stars, Will Rogers, Richard Barthelmess and Richard Dix, are paid by the picture. Rogers is said to get $125,000 for each film, making two a year. Barthelmess, who formerly got $300,000 a year for two pictures, this year will be paid the same amount for three films. Dix is said to get $100,000 for each film. He stars in three annually.

GET MORE THAN PRESENT
The average front rank movie star salary is $4,000 a week, and as contracts are written on a forty-week a year basis, the salaries average $160,000, or more than twice that paid the President of the United States.

Attention was forcibly directed at these high salaries last year, when Constance Bennett, on vacation for twelve weeks from the RKO studio, signed a contract to appear in two pictures for Warner Brothers, for which she was paid $300,000 for ten weeks of the year, the salary was $30,000 a day.

Among the directors whose salaries run into six figures are Frank Borzage, Raoul Walsh, George Fitzmaurice, Merwyn Leroy, Archie Mayo, George Hill, Ernest Lubitch, Norman Taurog, Lowell Sherman, Clarence Brown and William Wellman.

Many of the stars themselves have suggested their salaries be fixed in lower figures and that they be given a share of their pictures' profits, expressing willingness to go along with the producers on a percentage basis.

CONSTITUTION BEING ALTERED

Three Bills Passed By Irish Free State Dail; Sent to Senate

Canadian Press
Dublin, Oct. 13.—Without a division and with very little debate, the Dail Eireann yesterday evening passed the final stages of three bills amending the constitution by steps described by opponents as preliminaries to the establishment of a republic.

These bills transfer from the Governor-General to the Executive Council the function of recommending monetary appropriations; seek to abolish the right of the Governor-General to withhold consent to any bills passed by the Legislature, and abolish the right of appeal to the Privy Council in London.

The measures now go to the Senate where there is an anti-government majority. By declining to act, the Senate can hold them up for eighteen months, after which they would become law, regardless of the Senate's action.

The votes were not taken, however, before an Opposition member charged President Eamon de Valera, on the one hand, had reduced the Irish Free State to economic ruin, and now was turning it into a shambles on the other.

When President de Valera moved adjournment of the Dail until November 15, Opposition O'Sullivan, on behalf of the Opposition, declared the Dail needed to keep a careful watch on the republican government, which was armed with immense powers under the Public Safety Act.

U.S. SENATOR IS ACQUITTED

Associated Press
New York, Oct. 13.—Long-standing lottery charges against U.S. Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, described by government prosecutors as a "Mussolini of the Moose," and by his own counsel as "a great humanitarian," were wiped out by a jury's verdict yesterday evening.

Davis, director-general of the Loyal Order of Moose, and Theodore G. Miller, head of the Moose propagation department, were acquitted in federal court after a trial which had lasted three weeks, three and one-half days.

It was the second trial for Davis, the first having ended in a mistrial a year ago.

Immigrants Embarked to Battle the Wilderness . . . A New Problem Faces Their Descendants.

EIGHTY years ago, 21 British families left the brig "Discovery" at Nanaimo. They had transferred at Victoria from the "Princess Royal".

Dissatisfied with conditions in the Old Land, these brave pioneers had travelled over 11,000 miles to start work on one of British Columbia's great industrial projects. Before long, Nanaimo became the heart of a new industrial activity, and the eyes of the world were focused on this future enterprise.

Felling forests and eking out a meagre living were the major problems of the early pioneers. Today, their descendants are facing a new problem. Domestic industry is in jeopardy. Imported fuels threaten British Columbia payrolls. British Columbia miners are being robbed of wages—grocers, clothiers and every B.C. merchant is suffering from decreasing payrolls.

Remember, when you buy British Columbia coal you are keeping our own miners employed and getting the greatest heat value for your money.

ONLY THIRTEEN CANDIDATES

One unescapable fact stands out from the welter of nominations which were submitted yesterday to the provincial returning officer, and that is the absence of candidates supporting the government in thirty-four out of the forty-seven constituencies of the province. Of all the major parties and groups contesting the election, the government, with only thirteen candidates, had the smallest representation. This was a striking reversal of circumstances from those which existed in the last session of the Legislature when the government supporters comprised three-fourths of the total membership.

The government can not claim as potential followers more than a very few of those who are running under other auspices. The majority of the independents recently organized themselves into a party and issued a platform expressly repudiating all association with it now or hereafter. The C.C.F. made public a similar declaration, as have also the United Fronters. The Liberals, of course, are clear of this complication. The government therefore is out of the electoral picture. It could only regard itself as a factor in the situation if it had contested a majority of the seats, as Premier Tolmie in a public statement declared it was going to do, and which no doubt it was unable to do because it could not get candidates who were ready to acknowledge their support of it.

Having virtually abdicated as far as the election is concerned the government has no right to undertake any large expenditures or other commitments involving liabilities upon the taxpayers of the province. With representatives in little more than twenty-five per cent of the provincial constituencies it should not do more than supervise routine administration until it has surrendered the seals of office after polling day.

HITLER'S HARDEST PROBLEM

Stocky little Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria, some four feet eleven inches tall, a few days ago was accosted by a young man in Vienna and given a document to read. While he was reading, the young man drew a gun and fired two shots at the Chancellor, one glancing off a rib and the other causing a slight wound in the arm. Dollfuss staggered slightly, and then walked to his office where his wounds were attended to. Later in the evening he addressed a meeting and attended to his business as usual.

Most people in Austria believe the attempted assassination was instigated by the Nazis of Germany, and this belief hardens the public determination to resist to the utmost Hitler's most cherished project, the amalgamation of the two countries. Unless this can be accomplished the whole fantastic scheme of German-Aryan nationalism falls to the ground, since the essence of it is the consolidation of all purely Germanic peoples in Central Europe under the swastika. There is no use preaching the Hitler doctrine if Austria refuses to come into the picture, and sturdy little Dollfuss is determined to preserve the independent entity of his country.

Dollfuss knows, of course, that he is playing a strong hand. If the first place he has the backing of the allied signatories of the Treaty of Versailles which very definitely prohibited the amalgamation. Secondly, he can depend upon the support of Italy which for excellent reasons of its own objects to any Germanic consolidation taking in Germany and Austria, and which favors the amalgamation of Austria with Hungary. Dollfuss therefore thinks that he can thumb his nose at Hitler without any furtiveness and he is doing it with the benediction of the greater part of the world.

A dispatch from Vienna reports the junction of the Heimwehr with the Dollfuss forces. The Heimwehr are a kind of Home Guard organized by Prince von Starhemberg with no little encouragement from Italy with a view to the establishment of a Fascist dictatorship on the Italian model. If Dollfuss had been as futile a statesman as Premier Giolitti was in Rome at the time of Mussolini's irruption, Austria by this time would have been Fascist with Von Starhemberg at the helm. But he has been a different thing quite different. On one hand he has fought Hitler's Nazis to a standstill, while on the other he has not only kept the Heimwehr quiescent but actually has been able to secure their co-operation. Von Starhemberg may be the titular leader of the Heimwehr, but Dollfuss is its real leader. There will be no Mussolini or Hitler in Austria while Dollfuss is in the saddle. If there is any dictating to be done he is going to do it, albeit in the process he will smile upon the Duce and make faces at the egregious Hitler.

In a short time Germany, which under Stresemann and Brüning was rapidly rehabilitating itself in the respect of the rest of the world, has relapsed into a position of isolation even more pronounced than the occupied in 1914. Then she had the Austro-Hungarian empire and Turkey with her. Now she not only stands entirely alone, but has aroused the abiding hostility of the country which Hohenzollern used to describe as "my right hand." Dollfuss is showing himself to be several times too many for Hitler. After all, brains combined with courage still count, and Austria has them in her leader. That combination obviously is absent from Berlin.

MR. PATTULLO REPLIES

In recent weeks The Vancouver Daily Province has been repeatedly asking Mr. Pattullo where his campaign funds were coming from. It suspected he was getting them from the brewery and liquor interests. Several Liberal candidates in Vancouver took it upon themselves to tell The Province that no liquor funds were being contributed to help to finance the Liberal campaign. But The Province was not satisfied; it demanded an answer from the Liberal leader himself. It required him to say if such funds were coming his way, and if they were, what was the quid pro quo.

On Tuesday of this week, at Keremeos, Mr. Pattullo said he had been advised that no liquor money had been contributed to the Liberal funds, that his instructions were that contributions were only to be accepted free from commitment of any kind and solely in the interest of good government. The Liberal leader declared emphatically that he had not, in five years of leadership of the party, been approached by anyone with any suggestion that he should make a given course of action because of contributions to party funds. In other words, as The Province says editorially, Mr. Pattullo's statement is that "he stands to-day absolutely free and untrammelled to formulate legislation, and carry out administration with a purpose single to the public welfare."

But it seems to take a good deal to satisfy our Vancouver contemporary. It contends that Mr. Pattullo's reply is not as straight and unequivocal as it would like. "He has not said flatly that he knows no liquor or beer money has found its way into the party coffers," we read, "but he has made a reply and we shall have to accept it for what it is." This is somewhat ungracious on the part of a newspaper which knows not where it stands in this campaign. It is against Dr. Tolmie, against Mr. Pattullo, against Mr. Bowser, and against all the conglomeration of parties that are in the field. So it has had to use up a good deal of space asking Mr. Pattullo to set its and the public's mind at rest on the subject of campaign funds.

This deep concern about funds from liquor interests, incidentally, is in strange contrast with The Province's ambiguous attitude toward the King government's legislation to put an end to the shipment of Canadian liquor to the United States—legislation supported warmly by Premier Bennett and the vast majority of the Canadian newspapers. Three and a half years ago it could not make up its mind whether to support a plan to clean Canada's skirts on the border or not. Mr. Pattullo's statement at Keremeos is clear enough.

WHAT PROGRAMME FOR WINTER?

Apart altogether from the fact that so far Mr. Bennett has not told the west what he proposes to do to meet unemployment conditions in the coming winter months, it is rather surprising that, in view of his own governmental trade statistics, he should defend, as he did at Edmonton last night, his tariff-raising policies. He declared that the upward revision had been an emergency measure designed to protect Canadian workmen and Canadian markets, while he also declared that his fairest-minded political opponents had personally assured him he had been right. The Prime Minister is also reported as saying that of the preferences laid down in the Dunning budget of 1930 were to be put into operation, fifty per cent of Canada's industries would be ruined.

Mr. Bennett's argument that it was necessary to raise the tariff in order to provide employment and to restore a favorable balance of trade is a very familiar one with protectionists. But there is a difference between what may appear to be a plausible argument and actualities. It is true Mr. Bennett was elected to end unemployment and he said he would do so by raising Canada's customs duties. Since he initiated that policy, the country's trade has dropped to one-third of what it was three years ago and unemployment has increased three-fold.

When Mr. Bennett says that to drop the tariff barriers to the level prescribed in the Dunning budget would be to sound the death-knell of fifty per cent of Canada's industries in fifteen months, he strikes a chord of memory. It may be recalled that when Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding introduced the British Preference in 1897 as a move towards the increase of trade between this country and Great Britain—a preference the Laurier government gave without strings of any kind—Sir Charles Tupper painted a similar verbal picture. One would almost think that Mr. Bennett had been reading the speech Sir Charles delivered on that occasion before he spoke at Edmonton yesterday.

But instead of the dire consequences predicted by the eminent Conservative statesman, Canada's export and import trade very soon trebled itself, and this development continued until four years ago, when it had reached a total of nearly $625,000,000, or more than two-thirds of Canada's trade with the whole of the world at the present time. Mr. Bennett may rest assured that if the Dunning budget had been approved by the people of this country, the trade exchange between this Dominion and the United Kingdom would be a great deal larger than it is to-day—Ottawa treaties notwithstanding.

WORK FOR WOMEN
By J. H. Patillo, Montreal

Although, in the interests of moral and social order, the contention can always be maintained that woman's place is in the home; if one really looks the facts in the face, it is clear that the exigencies of modern life are forcing women more and more into paid occupations. . . . It is reasonable to presume that the great majority of women who are condemned to the harsh regime of wage-earning toil do so from necessity or from a desire to improve the standard of living of the family, which cannot be condemned as a bad motive.

(The population of Greater Montreal is now 1,333,520.) When one recollects that the entire province of Quebec only counts three million people, one is naturally inclined to regard as an abnormality this over-increasing compact agglomeration or huddle on a single point of our vast territory in Quebec. Whilst the population of Quebec City only increases very slowly, and whilst centres like Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Valleyfield, Hull, St. Hyacinthe, Granby, Chicoutimi, etc., do not increase by any leaps and bounds, the city, crowded by Malmouche's swarms with its ever-growing myriads,

Loose Ends

We go ahead with our mad mid-night ride—into the black canyon—through the white autumn mist and midnight—into the dawn and the wonder of the Dry Belt in October.

By H. B. W.

ESCAPE

IF you want to know the black immensity of the Fraser Canyon, the deep, throaty song of the river when all the world is still, and as last the smell of the dawn among the sage brush and the whispering yellow poplars of the Dry Belt—if you want to leave the election and the depression and all the foolish affairs of men far behind, in another world, then drive up the road at night. Drive at night, while civilization sleeps its sudden sleep at home. Drive on and on up the road that seems to have no end, up there above the river, close to the stars. Drive into the chill, sweet October dawn: that comes at one stride across Grandpa O'Shea's silent plateau, while the world of men begins to stir for another day of strife.

Of course it is a mad idea to start out from Vancouver at 8 o'clock in the evening with the deliberate, cold-blooded intention of driving all night, and the friends who see you off shake their heads solemnly, talk about the terrifying cliffs of Jackass Mountain and China Bar Bluffs, where a car can easily turn a neat somersault into the river about a thousand feet below. But it is a redeeming madness, the kind of occasional lunacy which keeps a man sane in these times, a complete escape from the world in its agony of world depression and provincial politics, an outlet from the pent-up and tortured feelings of our civilization. It is not as good a release, perhaps, as beating your wife or hanging the politicians to lamp posts; but it is something to do when the city with its pavements, its clamor and its fret, ahead is the welcoming darkness, the endless road and the dawn. You rush into it like an escaping prisoner.

NEW WORLD

TO SEE the great canyon by daylight is to see only half of it, and the duller half. By day it is a great, ragged scar through the tortured body of the mountains, a grin, a snarl and a howl. But when night comes its whole mood and aspect changes. All the roughness and unfriendliness go out of it. All the sharp and jagged points melt away. The bare and twisted mountains become huge blurs, as smooth as velvet and so close that you can almost reach out and touch them. Far down below the moonlight plays on the river, turning it to a stream of molten metal. The grizzled, hostile canyon of the daylight has become a vast trough of soft, friendly darkness.

Then, in the first hour of the new day, when the city behind is sunk in deepest unconsciousness, the mist comes up, the October mist from the river. It springs up from the water suddenly, like a ghost, a white thick mist which soon covers the water completely, makes the gorge look as if a torrent of white foam were surging through it. The torrent is just below you, almost at your wheels, but the real water is far lower than that, and through the thick layer of mist the roar of the river still comes up from a great distance. Up on the mountainside the mist thrusts its fingers until your headlights are thrown back into your eyes as from a mirror and you crawl around the bluffs, not knowing whether you are on the right side of the road or the left, wondering at every turn whether you are going over the edge or not. You crawl on for miles like that, with no notion where you are, with nothing visible now but a few feet of the road. Thus, half blind, you go through Yale, hard by the river, Spuzzan, Boston Bar and old Lytton, the stopping places of the gold rush that still beside their mother, the Fraser. A long, slow freight train, toiling its way down to the coast, like some one-eyed serpent coiling through the canyon, is the only sign of life in this whole black wilderness, and its whistle, echoing and re-echoing through the hills, is a friendly, human sound.

DRY BELT

BUT NOW a change has come. There is frost glistening on the fence posts of the lonely cabins beside the road—frost, but something else, a new feel in the air. It is the feel of the Dry Belt, that pungent mixture of sage and baked hillside, and, beyond that, the feel of the river, the river mist, though you have left the river mist far below, but it is unmistakable, this first smell of British Columbia's Dry Belt, this clear, sharp air, this feeling of space, of parched, rolling range land close to the sky.

And now, as you pass old Lillooet on its broad, flat above the river, the sky over to the right shows a thin band of lesser darkness above the broad shoulder of the purple hills. It is not light yet, but the stars are paling there. Ten more miles into the clay hills and you find a ragged streak of palest pink in the east, though the canyon to your left is still dead black. A little further and the first light begins to reveal the country around you—the round bulk of the pines, the scarlet leaves of a nameless shrub that pours out of the bank beside the road, the spurs of blood, the mackerel of the Fraser away down there.

Now the hills are coming to life, thrusting themselves out of the darkness, turning from smooth patches of black into living things of three dimensions. Their humps and ridges and wrinkles emerge slowly and vast shadows crawl up their sides from the valley. And how grim they look, how rough and grisly after the dark friendliness of the night!

DAWN

THEN, ALMOST at one stride, the daylight comes. It comes down the Marble Canyon from the east, over the grey granite hills, along the little valley of Pavilion and then, for the first time, you see the breathless wonder of the Dry Belt in October—the great billows of yellow poplar leaves sweeping far up the hillside and rolling down to the edge of the little green fields, where the tall alfalfa crop of the season is still lying in round haystacks; the scarlet of wild rose bushes beside the road; the utter blue of the sky.

In the sprawling Indian village at the base of the mountain no one is up yet but a few range cattle that turn their white faces at you in awed wonderment. Annie, the ancient squaw who lives alone in her cabin beside the white church with its red steeple, hears us and peers through the window with a face surely a thousand years old.

It is broad daylight now, 8 o'clock in the morning, when the city back there behind 200 miles of mountain and river, will begin to stir in its sleep, and the earliest alarm clocks will be ringing. And still you are as fresh as a night's driving as if you had slept soundly, for in these Dry Belt regions, in the frosty nights of October, you really don't need any sleep at all. In a few minutes more you top the last hill and are on the plateau, and just ahead lies the great ranch house and its barns sprawling in the dawn.

While the city back there is just rubbing its eyes, just bracing itself to face another day of politics and depression and civilization, you are swinging into the saddle for a gallop over the endless range and then, while the city wolfs its thin toast, with one eye on the clock; you can luxuriate in Grandpa O'Shea's vast kitchen over a mighty breakfast of steak and bacon and eggs that have in them the very flavor of the Dry Belt in October.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

HAVEN
Although within my hand I hold a key
That could unlock all doors most obstinate,
Though every portal would swing wide for me,
Where once I waited sad, importunate,
I still would wander restlessly through rooms
Where dwell the great of earth, the splendid souls
Within whose grasp the power of triumph lignons.
Whose lives are happy, having gained their goal.
I would be clasping always to my heart
A fragrant memory, a shining hope.
Dear thoughts that never from my days depart.
Because of these things I would seek, would seek,
And still would roam, unquiet evermore,
Until I find your small white house, your door.

Hart Outlines Plan For B.C. Tax Relief, But No Repudiation

MORE JONES' PRIVATE DEALS

Dealing with some of Finance Minister Jones' short term bond deals, Mr. Hart told how last January Mr. Jones made a private deal with some of his friends to dispose of $4,000,000 of B.C. bonds. Other financial houses in the Dominion who were not in the deal objected to it strenuously. But the deal was made with the result that it took the province four months to sell this $4,000,000 of bonds, and it paid over 6 per cent for the money.

"The last bond deal I put through by public tender and we got the highest price since the war," Mr. Hart went on. "But to-day B.C. bonds are at a lower level than that of any province in the Dominion."

Mr. Hart told how Finance Minister Jones in one deal had arranged short term financing in London when the pound was $4.40 in New York, resulting in a loss to the province in the transaction of $1,197,000.

"That amount will have to be paid by the province of B.C., and if the United States inflates, as I believe it will, and the pound goes to between $5 and $6, then that will turn out to be one of the most disastrous financial deals in history," he continued.

GIVES DEBT FIGURES

Mr. Hart said that the debt of British Columbia to-day was $165,000,000, with $60,000,000 of that put on during the last five years of the Toimie administration, which was at the rate of $12,000,000 a year, chiefly to cover deficits.

Reviewing the growth of B.C.'s debt, Mr. Hart said that in 1912 the McBratney government had a surplus in the treasury of $15,000,000, achieved by money taken from the treasury from the sale and alienation of natural resources, lands and timber being disposed of at cheap prices under, as Mr. Bower said, "let the speculator have his chance," and he had. When the Liberals took office in 1915 this $15,000,000 surplus had been spent, and the credit of the province wrecked, and large liabilities were accruing. The bankers then said they had loaned all the money they could to the province under the policies that had been in force since the previous years.

"We then worked out a policy of bringing expenditure within revenue, and as a result the bankers said if we continued that all the funds necessary would be advanced to us," Mr. Hart continued. "And immediately investors began to take notice of B.C. and its securities."

"In every year the Liberals had charge of affairs, except two, they produced surpluses in accordance with their promises to the financial houses. One of the deficits was $17,000,000, and the second for $48,000,000. But during the whole of the time we were in power we accumulated surpluses amounting to $13,461,000."

SURPLUS BECOMES DEFICIT

Contrasted with this Mr. Jones' when he took office in 1923 was to be elected, with the consummation of the Toimie union government, prepared an election budget showing $8,000,000 as an intended surplus with the expenditure set at $28,088,000 and the revenue at $28,088,000. But the election was not held, and what actually happened was that on the last day of the year, 1923, the deficit was $22,162,000, against a revenue of only $22,162,000, giving a deficit of $7,051,000, in place of Mr. Jones' promised surplus of $8,000.

Mr. Hart asserted that all Mr. Jones' economy amounted to was taking $2,000,000 from the municipalities and reducing the civil service.

The gross debt of B.C. at the end of March, 1917, was $25,521,861. Mr. Hart said. On November 1, 1927, the gross debt was $80,420,707. This represented an increase during the Liberal regime of $55,000,000.

"But this money was not borrowed and recklessly spent," Mr. Hart went on. "It was spent for specific purposes to help the farmers and returned men and for the development of this province."

RELIEVED AFTER WAR STRESS

Mr. Hart went on to detail how this money was allocated for the purposes, such as $15,000,000 for roads and bridges, at the requests of Boards of Trade and for the opening of motor roads, $5,000,000 for the University of B.C., $2,500,000 for public buildings, $6,000,000 for loans to farmers under the Land Settlement Board as an honest effort on the part of the government to help the farmers, $3,250,000 loaned to returned soldiers and spent going, starting it far enough away from his hollow stump bungalow so there would be no danger. When the fire was good and hot he put in the potatoes so they would be all ready for the arrival of the boys and girls when they should come to the party. The Bug had buzzed away to invite them.

Soon came running, hopping, jumping, skipping, flying and leaping all the animal children from Woodland. They had just been released from school.

"Oh, yes! Oh, yes! they should be brought down your tariff barriers, you see," said Uncle Wiggily, who was a hot leaves and embers away. Out rolled some round, black things like stones covered with tar.

"What are those?" asked Jackie Bow Wow.

"Oh, dear me!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Those are my potatoes but they are all burned black. We can't eat them. Truly the potatoes were burned to a crisp."

"What no potato party?" bleated Billie Wee, the goat.

"I'll make it an ice cream party, instead," said Uncle Wiggily.

"So he bought a hundred ice cream cones and they were as good as potatoes. And if the foot of the hill doesn't wiggle its big toe at the thimble, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's funny apple."

Uncle Wiggily's Potato Party

(By HOWARD R. GARRIS)

hen Uncle Wiggily returned after being gone to ask his wife what to do with the leaves he had raked up, rabbit gentleman with the Squiggle Bug, who was much surprised to find the leaves all scattered over his lawn.

"Who did this?" he asked.

The Fox and the Bob Cat," answered the Squiggle Bug, who was feeling better after having eaten the clams bought at the nine and eleven cent sale.

"Oh, those Bad Chaps! Always making trouble for me!" sighed the bunny gentleman.

"This time they made trouble for me," chuckled the Squiggle Bug, "I told you how the Bad Chaps, think Uncle Wiggily was beneath the big leaves, jumped on it simultaneously, which means both at the same time."

They met in the middle and most loudly they claw each other, kicking they had you! laughed the Squiggle Bug.

"Oh, it was a delicious joke! I know when I have buzzed and I and he went into another thing fit."

Uncle Wiggily, glad that he had escaped being plipped by the Bad Cat, was again raking up leaves.

"Did your wife tell you what to do with them?" asked the Squiggle Bug, who had wiped away the tears shed by his laughter.

"She told me to burn them," said Uncle Wiggily. "I could have thought that myself. I thought she would have some novel plan of getting rid of the old leaves."

"What are those?" asked the Bug, who was looking at the leaves.

"Such as what?" asked the Bug, who was looking at the leaves.

"Well," said Mr. Longears, "I thought maybe she would have told me to take the leaves, one at a time, the woods, leaving them there. That would have been a very long time, I would have had a chance from my adventures. But just to burn them all at once in a bonfire—dear, dear! No imagination at all!"

"Perhaps," buzzed the Squiggle Bug, "you will have an adventure while raking the leaves."

"Perhaps," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "I did think of it. I did think of it. I'll make a bon fire and we all see what happens."

He soon had the leaves nicely raked to a pile again and he was going in to get a match when he happened to see a peddler dog going past him with a basket of potatoes.

"Here's another bright thought of me," said the rabbit to the Squiggle Bug, "I'm going to have a potato party."

"A potato party, a roast potato party, you want to go into all the details," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll get some potatoes from this dog gentleman peddler, roast them in the embers of the fire and we'll have a party. I'll invite all my friends, or you can do it for me as you can buzz around faster than I can. How's that?"

"Fine and dandy!" exclaimed the Squiggle Bug. "I'll start inviting now. By the time you have the potatoes roasted the guests will be here. A fine idea!"

Uncle Wiggily bought a basket of potatoes from the Dog.

"And perhaps you have a match?" said the rabbit.

"Three!" barked the Dog, who was very quick that way and jokey.

Uncle Wiggily soon had his fire burning brightly.

SECESSION IS AGAIN ARGUED

Saanich Farmers Continue Efforts to Withdraw From Municipality

Reviving an issue which for years has been a subject of discussion by residents of the farming and rural wards of Saanich, ratepayers of Wards Five and Six have petitioned the Provincial Commission on Municipal Affairs to support their pleas to the government for powers of secession from the municipality.

In a lengthy brief, presented by their counsel, C. H. O'Halloran, the ratepayers point out the cause for their stand and urge that their plea receive support.

"It is beneficial from a social standpoint," he went on. "We have had the Workmen's Compensation with us and we will have the system of state health insurance as well be of great benefit to the mass of the people. The Liberal party has placed it as one of the planks in their platform."

OPPOSES OLD AGE PENSION CUTS

He went on to say Mothers' Pensions and Old Age Pensions were instituted by the Liberal government at Ottawa. As regards Mothers' Pensions, he declared mothers should be given full consideration. He said under the present administration Mothers' Pensions have been cut down in an arbitrary manner.

"We do not look upon Old Age Pensions as a matter of charity, but as a matter of right," Mr. Kinsman continued. "If a pension has been settled on a man I think it should remain with him for the rest of his life."

Regarding grants to municipalities being cut off by the government, he declared it placed an additional burden on the taxpayers of the municipality and made it more difficult for them to carry on their work.

"If you consider the Liberals have the fairest and squarest policies for British Columbia, then it is your duty to send members to support Mr. Patterson," Mr. Kinsman went on. "The Liberal party is the only party that is united and has a definite policy in this crisis."

FREEING FROM CAUCUS

Byron Johnson discussed the Liberal party planks of unemployment and freedom caucus.

"There is no plank in any platform that can do so much for good government than the Liberal plank for freedom on the floor of the House," Mr. Johnson said. "If we in British Columbia cannot have a parliament that represents the people, then I believe we are headed for dictatorship."

He declared that many worthy men who had served in public office had failed because they allowed caucus to dominate them. He said much of the trouble across the Bay was due to the fact that many men had served in public office before the good of the people. He pointed out that a number of men in the last House had in public statements admitted they were out of sympathy with the legislation they have supported.

"It is no wonder that conditions in this province are what they are under such circumstances," he continued.

ONLY WAY TO GET RESULTS

He said caucus domination could be abolished by making the defeat of the government only by want of confidence motion. He said of visiting the House of Commons in London last year and noting that the strongest criticism was coming from the supporters of the government. If such had been the case in British Columbia conditions that have arisen in the Legislature across the Bay would have been averted.

"Not until this change is made will you get results from the men you send across the Bay," he went on.

Dealing with unemployment, he declared the present relief system was far worse than the dole.

He said he thought the Liberal programme of public works was better than relief. Britain to-day had put over one of the greatest public works programmes in history.

"I have a great deal of respect for the way they do things in Britain, and if we follow them we cannot be far wrong," he said.

He said it was only temporary as regards solving unemployment, and the British Columbia government should impress on Ottawa the need for open markets for British Columbia products.

TWO ESSENTIALS FOR RECOVERY

Joseph H. Clearhue said every candidate should have some recovery programme. He declared the Liberal party had a recovery programme and was the only party to have such a programme.

"If we are going to have recovery in this world two things have got to be accomplished," Mr. Clearhue went on. "First is the present level of wages and prices have got to be raised and secondly, we have got to bring down tariff barriers. This second was the argument made by Hon. Neville Chamberlain the other day in London."

He said that the Liberal party was to bring down your tariff barriers, you see, said Uncle Wiggily, who was a hot leaves and embers away. Out rolled some round, black things like stones covered with tar.

"What are those?" asked Jackie Bow Wow.

"Oh, dear me!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Those are my potatoes but they are all burned black. We can't eat them. Truly the potatoes were burned to a crisp."

"What no potato party?" bleated Billie Wee, the goat.

"I'll make it an ice cream party, instead," said Uncle Wiggily.

PROPOSE B.C. STARTS THINGS

Canada must now wake up to this, said Mr. Clearhue. "If someone doesn't start it, it will never be started and we in British Columbia propose to do the starting. We propose to call together in B.C. an economic council of wage earners and employers, economists and specialists in planning."

"And the brewers," someone in the audience said.

"Yes, the brewers might be represented as they are large employers of labor," Mr. Clearhue replied.

Dealing with the parties in the context, Mr. Clearhue declared the Conservative party was definitely out of the contest. Then there was the Toimie party, which had a programme of wait and see, a programme of domination of capital over labor and depressing wages. As for the C.C.F., he declared it was a pure socialist party and he could not see why they did not come out and call themselves by that name. He said the C.C.F. planned to take over all industry.

"So does Roosevelt," came a voice from the audience.

W.I. ANNUAL MEETING ENDS

Greetings From Provincial
President Mark Closing Sessions of Conference.

Demonstrations of Spinning
Are Feature; Board Elects
Officers

Demonstrations of the grading of a piece by W. Hasti Cochrane and of carding and spinning by Mrs. V. S. Mac-Lachlan concluded the interesting two-day conference of South Vancouver Island Women's Institutes yesterday afternoon. The demonstration was followed with much interest, many questions being asked by the delegates.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

The newly-elected board of directors announced its election of officers as follows: President, Mrs. T. C. Robson
(Vimy); re-elected, Mrs. J. L. White (Victoria); Mrs. H. E. B. Cresine (Esquimalt); Mrs. L. M. Savory (Langford); and Mrs. A. P. Webster (Lake Hill).
Conveners of committees were returned en bloc, with the addition of Mrs. K. Palmer commenting on the League of Nations.
Institute that reported during the days were: Royal Oak, Mrs. Reid, comment by Mrs. M. T. Thomas (Cedar);
Luxton and Happy Valley, comment by Mrs. L. E. Troop; Sooke and North
Sooke, Miss Cane, comment by Mrs.
Drummond; South Salt Spring Island,
Mary E. Drummond, comment by Mrs.
Meroe; and Victoria Institute, Mrs. M.
E. Fairweather, comment by Mrs. M. E.
Service.

MRS. GORDON

In bringing greetings from the provincial board the provincial president, Mrs. J. D. Gordon, expressed satisfaction with the progressive attitude of the organization as a whole. Women's institutes had long since outstripped their critics, so much so that it was more frequently heard to-day that it was this forward-looking group of women were given more responsible share in community government, conditions might be a great deal better than they were.

It was suggested by the provincial president that institutes might appoint committees to collect ideas aimed at the improvement of district laws, forwarding these to those in charge. The need of such was experienced by exhibitors who found it impossible to protect their exhibits from children. Some form of glass or other covering would also assist in the preservation of foodstuffs.
Gratification was also expressed at the increase of institutes in the Peace River district, which now has eighteen.

REPORT ON FUNDS

Miss H. Leighton reported for the Othos Scott fund, showing that with the balance of $4,092 in the bank in October, 1932, donations during the year of $400, and interest amounting to $122.17, the fund now stood at $4, 514.42.

Mrs. B. A. McMillan of Cobble Hill gave a report concerning the W.I. fund for the erection of a tablet at the So-larium. She announced that the fund still lacked a small sum, to which Mrs.
N. Fairweather, on behalf of the Victoria Women's Institute, promised the necessary amount to complete the fund, to enable the tablet to be placed in position shortly.

Announcement was made that the new board would meet for the first time early in November, when the annual conference would be taken up.

Dr. J. D. Gordon, provincial superintendent, the delegates were the guests of luncheon at the Equinox and Happy Valley Institutes. On Wednesday the Victoria Women's Institutes entertained the delegates at luncheon.

WILL SING FOR SOLARIUM FUND

St. Barnabas Church was beautifully decorated with mauve and pink chrysanthemums and greenery for the ceremony yesterday evening which united in marriage
Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Merryfield, Douglas Street, and Mr. Clarence Foot, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Foot, Market Street.

Rev. N. E. Smith officiated in the presence of a large congregation, and during the signing of the register
Phyllis Deville, very sweetly sang
"Because" (d'Hardelot).

THE BRIDE'S RETINUE

Entering the church with her father, to the strains of the Lohengrin
"Bridal Chorus," played by the organist, the bride wore a beautiful wedding gown of soft white satin made on slim lines flaring to a full long skirt, and had full puff sleeves. Her veil of net was confined to her head, with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and maidenhair fern.

There were four attendants, Mrs. V.
Midgley, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor in a charming frock of yellow organdie with a matching picture hat, who carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was Miss Irene Holmes, in a pretty frock of mauve organdie with a small hat to match, whose bouquet was of blue dahlias and Michaelmas daisies. The two dainty flower girls were the bride's little sisters, Frances and Lillian Merryfield, dressed in pale green organdie with large white satin bows in their hair, and carried baskets of pink roses. Mr. Leonard Foot supported his brother, and the ushers were Messrs. Frank Hofnagel, Charles Bryant, Richard Midgley and Horace Williams.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

A largely attended reception followed the service at the home of the bride's parents, where chrysanthemums and asters were used in decoration of the room. The bride and groom stood beneath a large archway entwined with ivy and pink roses, from which was suspended a large white bell wreathed in roses, and they were assisted in welcoming their guests by their parents.
Mrs. Merryfield wore a smart black silk dress with touches of ivory and hat en suite, and they were assisted in welcoming their guests by their parents.

A beautifully decorated three-tier cake, made by the bride's father, centered the supper table, which was dressed with vases of Michaelmas daisies and pink asters, and pink and white streamers, which fell from the chandelier. During the reception Miss Phyllis Deville sang several solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Foot will make their home at 1048 1/2 Pandora Avenue.

Shrine Hall Yesterday Afternoon

The Daughters of the Nile, while their social functions are comparatively rare, are popular hostesses and a large number of guests attended the delightful bridge tea under their aus-

NEW BEER SALE PLAN IN ONTARIO

Toronto, Oct. 13.—A beer and wine policy the leaders hope will satisfy all will be incorporated in the Conservative Party's platform in the forthcoming Ontario election. This was the declaration of Hon. H. C. Schofield, Minister without portfolio in the provincial cabinet, when queried as to his attitude on the question of beer and wine in hotels, during the course of an address at a Conservative ward rally yesterday evening.

Mr. Schofield had only started to speak when the question was put. "I can tell you on behalf of the government that when the Conservative Party goes to the country in the forthcoming general election the government will give the people a beer and wine policy that will satisfy all," he said.

The Shining Talent

By ELEANOR EARLY

(Copyright, 1929, by NEA Service Inc.)

"Oh, no. I'd be just as nice as anything. It would be a real engagement. You know I'd play the game. If we agree to try it out. You could come here whenever you wanted. I would go out with you, whenever you choose. My only stipulation would be that the engagement should be an absolute secret, until we had given it a fair trial."

"If we can get along peacefully for three months, say, then we can be married. I love Rita so much that I'll do anything in reason to keep her. If marriage between us seems to be reasonable, then I am quite willing to be married. But you know yourself that there would be no earthly sense in leading a cat and dog life, for the sake of sharing Rita. That wouldn't be any good for her, and it wouldn't bring any of us happiness."

"Why not—assess our engagement, if you really mean to go through?"

"No." She shook her head firmly. "You see, I am a public sort of person. People, for some strange reason, are interested in what I do. If I should announce our engagement, every newspaper in America would carry the story. I loathe and despise advertising my personal affairs. An engagement is always a more or less hazardous affair. There is nothing disgraceful about an experiment that fails. But if our experimental engagement should prove a mistake, I should not want everyone gossiping about it."

She continued reasonably. "You see, a public person has so little private life. Look what happened when John Gilbert and Ina Claire were married. Well, if you and I should become publicly engaged, it would create a good deal of interest, because my plans are still running, and 'Ashes of Desire' is up with the best sellers. But if you and I should break our public engagement, the story would be ten times as good. Romance is always good. But a broken romance is better."

"You talk as if this trial engagement were already broken," he objected. "Honestly, Bob," she promised, "try to make it successful. I'm pointing out the very good reason being discreet, until we are sure."

"And at the end of three months, if you can stand me at all, I'll marry me?"

"That's a dreadful way of putting it. I suppose that's about the idea," admitted.

"And meantime I get the privilege of a fiancé, but I have to keep my mouth shut about it?"

"Exactly."

CHAPTER XLIV

Eventually Bob had agreed to trial engagement. And he began, immediately, a very nice indeed. Molly had a lot of a painting she had seen and in Florence. As though she were a painter, she had seen the original, and waved a magic sceptre. Bob cured a very fair copy. It was Maddalena by Carlo Dolci. The usual conceptions of Magda in Florence had seen them in galleries, were of older women, tragic faces. But Carlo Dolci painted a young girl, of high age, who had been bad, and was a saint. She was beautiful, intense, her eyes were dark and passionate, and her lips were full, and fastidiously kissing. There was a holy light in her face, and it had been transcribed by a great love. Such a girl might live in any age. And in any time, Molly thought of her as a girl of centuries. She had wanted to produce a copy ever since she saw the original. Molly knew nothing at all of her life that she would have liked to tell. She had been born in the reggio's Virgin Adoring the Baby.

Now Bob had found the Magda for her, and he had not forgotten the coveted the most exquisite Madonna. He thought he knew a copy might be obtained. A reproduction. Molly was touched delighted. She had been told that she was a great love. Such a girl might live in any age. And in any time, Molly thought of her as a girl of centuries. She had wanted to produce a copy ever since she saw the original. Molly knew nothing at all of her life that she would have liked to tell. She had been born in the reggio's Virgin Adoring the Baby.

money being circulated, bringing a better time to the fortunate. Think of the enormous staff to handle all this business, of the revenue to be gained by the office in the sending of letters, orders, etc. Then the great "sweepstakes" required to prize winners, and then they get their money, the money they have spent, absolutely is no better way of using money for various purposes. The hospitals could give all over classes of people free treatment and care, under this method, is something everyone would see. No more begging nickles for tag days. All one can do is missing a grand chance to win a pile of money. SUNT IGNATIEFF'S SPEECH the Editor:—Count Ignatieff's speech in the House of Commons, some hard facts the conditions are essential for a healthy Canada and a consolidated (though flexible) empire.

Well-balanced speeches at an time, time, do a great deal to the empire, and it is the duty of the British Empire for Commonwealth of Nations to-day on a mid "tethering world," rather than from his words that other Country, by a wise tolerance "ways of youth, has kept remarking the hold she has on the sons of her family of kindred, us. But, if here and there the disruptive aspects of nationalism have been difficult to restrain, it is only necessary for the reluctant to step out of the fold of nations to appreciate that nowhere is "the standard of human relations so high" to-day as those which are found in the Imperial unity.

True, the components of the family of the empire may be various and the whole not uniform; nevertheless it is also true that "British" stands for something indefinable that is borne of kindred "blood sacrifices" to the world's end. This tolerance, this "playing the game," mark everywhere in the world this people from which many have sprung. But we must ever be watchful, for there is a steady stream crossing our frontiers whose chief characteristics seem only to banish and destroy and in our land we should be on guard against the "Christian belongs to all men; that love for man as man, is greater than all our individual affections; that charity is love perfected by the spirit of God, and that within the empire we should let God manifest Himself as our first and sovereign happiness; then out of it may spring forth a new world to God.

But we must pray first, particularly for the Mother Country, whom with her untiring patience and stupendous burdens, we rarely give a serious thought. And since love is the principle of the New Testament, we ought as members of the commonwealth hold our "torch high" and keep our humility lowly. Love and humanity cannot truly exist separately.

C.C.F. PROGRAMME

To the Editor:—I would like to write a few words on the subject of views as expressed by the political party described as "C.C.F." as reported from time to time in your newspaper. I approach the subject with some diffidence, however, as I have quite forgotten the words the above initials stand for, whether it is Canada's Coming Rally or something else I do not know, so I may be considered by many as not a fit person to pass an opinion. But I will risk it. I do think that some of the cures they suggest for these evil times might turn out to be worse than the disease.

For instance, they suggest that all our banks should be run by government, as opposed to our present institutions. Now, I think our banks as they are now are run quite efficiently and have weathered all financial storms for many years and are sounder than those of our neighbors to the south, and in short, almost any other country. A business that is so eminently sound should be left to carry on, and not be permitted to be messed up by Parliament in the way our railways have been. The complaints made to the banking commission recently were, I think, mostly very trivial. For instance, one was that the banks would not advance money to a fruit purchasing company, on fruit the company did not even own. There were, of course, a few reasonable complaints, too high interest charges and so on, but I feel that such matters could, if necessary, be adjusted in a legal manner through acts of Parliament. As for the plan of government ownership of all banks or other industries I think that people who have that in mind must be "gluttons for punishment." Have they never considered what government control of industries has done in the past? Take, for instance, our railways, merchant marine and many others, adding hundreds of millions to our national debt with, I think, no instance of any economy or reduction in expense. The railway debt is by far the most serious of Canada's problems to-day and is very largely responsible for our present situation. Think what it would have meant if this had been avoided. What would be the relief at the present time, and yet this party (C.C.F.) would like to add millions more to our debt by setting up government banks. What would be the relief at the present time, and yet this party (C.C.F.) would like to add millions more to our debt by setting up government banks.

AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor:—The community of Victoria has suffered a greater loss in the passing from among us of William Henry Griffiths than may appear on the surface, for he was one of those rare individuals whose devotion to duty and adherence to principle in all circumstances and in every phase of life was the strongest motive of his every decision and every act. Such devotion to ideal conduct may well serve as an example and inspiration to all who knew him.

He will be very greatly missed among a wide circle of friends, many of whom will always gratefully remember his ready sympathy and the wisdom of his counsel and advice given in times of their perplexity and sorrow.

A CURE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

To the Editor:—The only cure for unemployment is work, that we all know.

The country is so heavily in debt we must all do our bit and keep pegging away. We are nearing the end of our borrowing powers, so must find ways and means for carrying on. If one party fails to take his or her responsibilities it only makes it doubly hard for another.

We must cut governmental expense and in this way reduce the overhead. As soon as excess taxation ceases business will revive and the revival of labor will find employment, the cure for all our ills.

HANNA SPEAKS AT CUMBERLAND

Cumberland, Oct. 13.—"When it comes to the people on one side and the bond holders and coupon cutters on the other, I am for the people every time," said L. A. CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or even just a little hard of hearing or have had noises go to your ears and get 1 ounce of Parinaud (double strength), add to it 1/4 ounce of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone hearing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

RALPH EMERY IS FREE MAN

Jury on Island Manslaughter Case Recommends Suspension of Gun License

Judge Agrees, But Points Out That Law Covers Only Convicted Criminals

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Oct. 13.—The jury on the Ralph Emery manslaughter case brought in a verdict of not guilty after thirty-five minutes deliberation. The jury in adding a rider to their verdict recommended that Emery be deprived of a gun license. His lordship said he was of the same opinion, but there was no law in the criminal code to prevent persons from having gun licenses who were not convicted criminals. It was his opinion, he said, that anyone who kills anybody in a case of this kind, should be made to suffer in some way besides having a trial. It was a good idea on the jury's part to deprive such people of firearms for safety, and he would pass on their recommendation to the proper authorities. The same thing applied to drivers of automobiles, he said.

Emery was charged with manslaughter arising out of the death of Stanley Bayne at Beaver Creek, June 28. The evidence showed that Emery while driving past Bayne's farm saw a deer in a field and fired two shots. A spent bullet of one of the shots struck Bayne in the right side, passing through the body and coming out above his right hip.

Cross-examination showed that Bayne was hidden from view by a large clump of bushes, and it was impossible to know that there was anyone in that vicinity when the shot was fired by accused, Gordon Sloan, Vancouver, defended, and Victor B. Harrison prosecuted.

Looking after the people was the primary duty of both governments.

By maladministration the return on the cost of public works was inadequate, he said. Material and equipment should be bought at the most reasonable price obtainable in open market, or the government should institute means of making their own. The very threat of this would probably be enough to bring prices down.

Highways should be taken out of politics and put in the hands of an administrative board of efficient men. Mr. Hanna prophesied the defeat of the C.C.F. They advocated a socialist state; and it could not be done in B.C., he said. It was impossible to have a socialist province in a capitalist country. How could B.C. trade its trade for it? It could not consume all its produce. They would find itself isolated.

The C.C.F. proposed to muzzle the press, while raving for the right of free speech, said Mr. Hanna. He himself had supported efforts for the repeal of the ninety-eighth amendment. He believed in free speech.

The C.C.F. was a party of many parties, yet they refused to co-operate with any other party or group even if the interests of the province were at stake, and if elected could only hope to have a minority voice.

Mr. Hanna solicited the support of the electors on his five years' experience and his earnest desire to do his best in their interests. A. McKinnon was chairman.

Australia has only two persons with incomes of $140,000 or more; only one-third of the population pay income taxes, the average yearly income among the payers being about $450.

The practice of paying road maintenance men higher wages than men on relief working side by side on the same job was very heavily scored by the speaker. He advocated a fair day's work for a fair day's pay. The action of the government in lowering the wage scale had encouraged industrialists to do the same, and until the government raised the wage rate they would not do so. He urged all relief workers to make their money should not be wasted clearing rights of way along seldom used roads miles from anywhere.

The practice of juggling and switching responsibility for the handling of unemployment relief between Ottawa and Victoria was another unfair thing.

LIBERALISM OR CONFUSION

Stable Party Or Social Chaos Electors Choice, Says Whittaker

Saanich Liberal Candidate Addresses Enthusiastic Meeting

Special to The Times

The electors of British Columbia will be called upon to choose on November 2 between Liberalism and a political, industrial and social chaos, declared Norman W. Whittaker, Liberal candidate for Saanich, in an address at Tillicum School, Ward Seven, yesterday evening. The hall was not large enough to hold the crowd. It was the most enthusiastic meeting yet held in the ward.

There were two spectres facing the people of the province—uncontrolled capitalism and autocratic Socialism, the candidate said.

A vote for Socialism would be a vote for another individual initiative and place control of the province in the hands of a mysterious and autocratic committee. The Liberal party, said Mr. Whittaker, was the only solid unit offering constructive measures to bring about a satisfactory state of affairs in the province. Liberal members would have absolute freedom in voting on any measure and the government could be overthrown only on a vote of confidence motion. This would definitely eliminate any struggle between a member's loyalty to his party and duty to the people of his riding.

PERMANENT WORKS
The candidate outlined the Liberal plans for putting into effect the construction of public works of a lasting character. He was questioned on this point as to the source of funds for such a purpose, and said the national credit could be used possibly by a measure of inflation which would get people to loan money on government bonds as a patriotic move not bearing interest.

"We intend to get the money for this work because we feel it is absolutely necessary that the unemployed be put back to work, and for wages," he said.

Mr. Whittaker pledged himself to the principle of unemployment insurance, declaring that if the federal government failed to put into operation a plan of this kind on a contributory basis he would agitate in the Legislature for the B.C. government to make provision for the unemployed.

PLANKS OUTLINED
The candidate dealt with most of the planks on the Liberal platform.

MUSICAL PICTURE OPENS SATURDAY

Jack Oakie and Skeets Gallagher are reunited once more as the foremost comedy team of the films, in Paramount's first big musical comedy of the new season, "Too Much Harmony," which comes on Saturday to the Capitol Theatre.

They were acclaimed throughout the country a few years ago after scoring an outstanding success in Paramount's "Close Harmony."

In "Too Much Harmony" they play a pair of "dumb vaudevillians, once a great pair of low comix who have since gone high-brow to their own ruin. In their act is Judith Allen.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

One of the most spectacular fires ever staged for a motion picture, and one which caused studio executives keen anxiety during its taking, will be seen in the Warner Bros. production, "The Mystery of the Wax Museum," at the Columbia Theatre today.

This was the burning of a set representing an old wax museum in London, which contained scores of figures modeled in wax. Extraordinary precautions had been taken by the production department to make the fire at once awe inspiring, and yet safe for the actors and workmen.

DOMINION THEATRE

One of the most satisfying films of recent weeks is now at the Dominion Theatre. It is "The Devil in Love," the new Fox romance in which Victor Jory gets his first chance at a stellar role.

Cast as a young surgeon whose circumstances send through an entire gamut of social honor and dishonor, Jory justifies the hopes of the Fox studio in his ability as an actor. He is a production department to make the film that gives him glorious opportunities.

Loretta Young seems to grow more beautiful with each film. In "The Devil in Love" she makes a fine showing in the leading feminine role.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Ever since the novel of "The Masquerader" now at the Capitol Theatre was first written and then revived and re-revived in its various editions down to Ronald Colman's appearance in its dual roles, amazing evidence has been adduced to prove that two men may look alike, and even that one man may have two distinctly separate personalities and natures, controlled entirely by external circumstances.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Myrna Loy's boudoir in "Topaze" now at the Playhouse Theatre is in pure white with walls of spun glass, a new German importation. Carrying out the glass idea are hundreds of little blown glass animals placed prominently on tiny marble shelves built in alcoves.

To dress this set was a terrific job, but the delicate white simplicity of the whole thing was so stunning it was well worth the trouble.

FOSTER TELLS OF PLATFORM

Independent Candidate For Gulf Islands Speaks at Sidney

Cut Overhead and Balance Budget Included in Seven Points

Sidney, Oct. 13.—Col. W. W. Foster, independent candidate for the Gulf Islands, supported by Brigadier-General J. A. Clark of Vancouver, spoke at an address meeting at Stacey's Hall, Sidney, yesterday evening.

Criticism of the former Liberal administration and the present administration was voiced by Colonel Foster. Public works of the province were being badly handled at the present time, he claimed. He outlined a seven-point platform which included reduction of overhead expenses and provision of a balanced budget, creation of a central bank with control over monies required for public use, and interest charges on work for youths now in camps, and general endeavors to create useful works to absorb unemployed.

In addition, he favored prosecution of work in districts on a purely business basis, and apart from relief, with proper remuneration for such work. Health and employment insurance on a national basis was sponsored by the candidate, with maintenance of the present standard in social services.

A. T. Burdette, secretary of the Victoria branch of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, also addressed the meeting.

There was dancing and refreshments were served after the speeches.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW

TO-DAY'S POET TRUE REALIST

Lack of Unifying Factor Causes Tension in Modern Works, Dr. Sedgwick Says

Present Day Writer Depicts Things as They Actually Are, Without Varnish

Although poetry of the present day may be strange and puzzling and sometimes even revolting, it must be admitted that the poets depict stark realism with conditions as they really are, without any varnish or veneer, and without flinching from their task, said Dr. G. G. Sedgwick of the University of British Columbia, English Department, in a lecture on "The Poetry of Tension" before an interested audience at the first University Extension Society lecture at Victoria College yesterday evening.

Before the meeting the annual election of officers took place with the result that Dr. Sedgwick was elected president for the 1933-34 season. Miss Jeanette A. Cann was selected as vice-president. Lewis Clark was appointed secretary-treasurer. J. T. Stott, retiring secretary-treasurer, was thanked for his services to the organization for the noble and untiring work he had performed during the last ten years.

UNIFICATION WAS FACTOR

Unification in the hope of democratic growth was important in the Victoria era, Dr. Sedgwick said, just as the Church of England had been a unifying factor in the Dark Ages of medieval history when the Italian Dante wrote "La Divina Commedia." There is a lack of the unifying power in the consciousness of writers of the present time, he stated, and read from T. S. Eliot's "Waste Land" and the works of Ezra Pound to substantiate his statement.

TENSION IN MIND

"One of the troubles with our literature to-day," the speaker affirmed, "is that besides the tension which is present between the artist and the subject of his creation, there is also a tension of social and religious feeling of tension."

"The unifying forces of past days are gone to-day, and the world is split up as never before into sects—religious, political and social—giving the feeling of tension."

He explained that the literary tastes of the present generation were being shaped by a vast number of influences, and that there was no unifying power in the literature of the present day.

MANY ATTEND SERVICE

Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick read the service over the remains of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Morris yesterday afternoon in the presence of many sorrowing friends. The hymns sung were "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light." A large number of beautiful floral offerings were received. The funeral service was held at 2 p.m. at the Victoria Memorial Hospital. The remains were laid to rest at Royal Oak Burial Park.

George Hart, charged with having liquor in a dance hall, was convicted and fined $50. The proprietor, who was charged with permitting the consumption of liquor in his place, was dismissed.

Great Central, Oct. 13.—Miss Louise Harris, who is attending university, spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Robson have returned from a two weeks' trip to Los Angeles.

COURT HALTS DIAMONITE CO.

Attorney-General's Department, After Inquiry, Gets Restraining Order

Investors Induced to Buy Stock on Promise of Jobs, Court is Informed

Operations of the Canada Diamonite Limited and the Canada Diamonite Syndicate under the B.C. Securities Act, were brought to a halt by a restraining order issued by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in the Supreme Court here today upon the application of W. H. H. Haldane, counsel acting for the Attorney-General of British Columbia.

The action of the Attorney-General was based upon the discovery that stock had been sold by the syndicate of offering employment to subscribers brought to the company through advertisements in a Victoria newspaper inviting applications for employment. Mr. Haldane informed the court. In return for investment, jobs were offered for three-year terms at monthly salaries ranging from $40 to $150, according to the amount invested.

It is one of the first company promotions in which the Attorney-General has stepped in and taken open action to curb under the extensive powers granted his department through recent additions to the Securities Act to prevent the defrauding of the public in stock selling.

The company holds a lease to the large deposit at Quesnel, B.C., of diatomaceous earth, to be mined and brought over the P.E.I. in closed cars to Victoria, where on the Songhees Industrial Reserve under harbor waterfront the company has a five-story factory building partly completed. The material is manufactured into insulation of all kinds for refrigeration and house construction.

To-day's application followed the inquiry conducted into the affairs of the diatomite organizations during the last month by Mr. Haldane, who was appointed a commissioner by the provincial government to investigate complaints under the Securities Act.

J. R. McNeill, counsel for William A. Laming, the original holder and promoter of the Quesnel properties, and Stuart Yates, counsel for Peter Johan Hatterman van Oudenol, John Maxwell Potter, the Canada Diamonite Limited and the Canada Diamonite Syndicate, consented to the order asked for by Mr. Haldane, following the presentation to the court of the affidavit of H. G. Garrett, registrar of companies and superintendent of brokers, who is administering the Securities Act. This affidavit was based on facts brought out by the inquiry conducted by Mr. Haldane.

Canada Diamonite Limited was incorporated in British Columbia in 1929 with an authorized capital of $100,000, divided into 100,000 shares of $1 each. In addition 150,000 ordinary shares without nominal or par value, Mr. Garrett stated in his affidavit as presented to the court by Mr. Haldane. The company was first formed as a public company, but has since been converted into a private company and is registered as such, with head office at 1112 Langley Street, Victoria, with William Arthur Laming as managing director. The company is not registered under the Securities Act.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The first reports of the membership campaign will be read to-night at the supper held by the organization at 6:15 at the Y.M.C.A. building. An advance check indicates that the campaign will prove eminently satisfactory, and it is confidently believed that a report of last year in membership figures.

Monday evening at 6:15 a combined meeting will be held for supper in Spencer's dining room, at which the celebration of Founder's Day will be joined to the second report of the drive.

The committee has been very busy organizing the supper, and several pioneer workers are expected to attend. The meeting will publicly recognize their services to the organization.

The organization committee is composed as follows: W. A. Jameson, H. L. Beckwith and A. Mallett.

W. E. Brown, vice-president of the "Y," will preside in the unavoidable absence of the president, H. P. Witter. Minutes of the original meeting in Victoria, 1875, will be read by the secretary, E. J. Clark.

W. H. Bone, who was present at the original meeting, will give his reminiscences after which J. L. Beckwith will read the 1895 reorganization of the Y.M.C.A. in Victoria, and what extent the work would be done.

Physical Director Archie McKinnon this morning announced the formation of a new swimming group, for boys from five to ten years of age. This class is a result of the success of the class for older boys. The class will meet at the "Y" at 3:30 on Tuesday next, October 17, and every Tuesday thereafter at the same time until the end of April.

Registrations, of which some half-dozen have already been received, will be taken over the telephone.

Other swimming groups for girls and boys are already fully subscribed. A few more members will be taken, however, for the women's class.

A meeting of the swimming leaders has been fixed for Monday evening at 7 o'clock in Archie McKinnon's office. The leaders are: Don Davidson, Stuart Perry, Riddle, Don Davidson, Gordon Taylor, Bob-Male, Harold Ross, Frank With, Chris McRae, Ivor Puller and Denny Walker. The meeting will be a complete schedule of swimming routine for the season.

It was announced this morning that a certain number of limited privilege tickets will be granted in the Boxing and Wrestling Club, allowing training in one of the activities only at a reduced fee.

F. M. Walde, underground surveyor for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corporation at Kimberley, said that he is spending a holiday at the Empress Hotel with Mrs. Walde.

Ellsworth Vines Can Rise Again as Professional Player

"Pa" Stribling Had Presentation of Tragic Death for His Son

George Boucher, New Ottawa Hockey Boss, Starts Trading Early

IT IS HARD to imagine that Ellsworth Vines has topped from the position of number one man in the tennis world to a place where he cannot even get to the final in the Pacific Southwest tournament on his home grounds. Like "Red" McLaughlin, he rocketed across the tennis firmament with a game built on youthful energy and an extreme "will to win," rather than on a game of sounder fundamentals than the other players. Like McLaughlin, he married, and like McLaughlin, he crashed from the top to the bottom in one swoop when tennis became a secondary, instead of the only, interest in life.

With the announcement that Vines will make his professional debut in a series with Bill Tilden in January, tennis followers are asking themselves the question: "Can he rise again?" Vines is young and can regain his spirit with a rest from tennis. If he doesn't get sidetracked into some job that would keep him from gaining the competition and practice necessary to a high class player.

The passing of Vines from the amateur ranks leaves the United States without an outstanding player. The complete collapse of the United States Davis Cup hopes without Vines' full strength to rely upon illustrates how important just one very good player is to a nation in international competition. One exceptional player assisted by good team members, who were slightly inferior to the opponents might swing the balance; if he could win two matches, his teammates would have to win only one out of three, two singles and a doubles, to triumph.

"Pa" Stribling must have visioned just such an unfortunate accident as took the life of his son, a matter what polish the years added to "Willie's" exterior, inside he still was a big kid, even when he took that last ride on his motorcycle.

You'd think that a boy would have been hardened to Willie's antics after handling the Georgia boy in more than 350 fights, but Pop never failed to have a mild case of jitters when the boy started training.

The elder Stribling watched his offspring like a hawk at all times. During training periods he put his foot down on three of "Willie's" pet projects, golf, an airplane, and a motorcycle. But the kid in Strib never snickered, and every chance he got he snickered away from the paternal scrutiny and indulged in one or the other.

We have a clear recollection of the tough time Pop had with Strib when he met Max Schmeling in Cleveland. That probably was Pop's biggest nightmare.

Strib would train according to orders, but after his workout, he'd sneak away and the first thing Pop would know his favorite son was up in the air cutting capers, or racing that infernal motorcycle over the countryside, arousing the ire of traffic cops who couldn't catch him.

Once Strib went up in a plane and circled over the training quarters, coming down so low as to wave greetings to his foe.

That's the nearest approach to apology Pa ever had.

Young Stribling was a boy at heart. He took into the ring in his last fight the same spirit that won him his fight from Mike McGuire at the age of eighteen.

He clenched. He laughed. He ran circles around his foe, and he had just as good a time in the ring as he had out of it.

His one idea was to win a fight without taking much punishment. He depended on his feet to get him out of trouble rather than on his punch.

It's tough to think that he went like he did, but he was having a good time on his motorcycle.

George Boucher, newly-appointed manager of the Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League, didn't sit in the driver's seat for long before he started things the other way. He let go of Bob Gracie to Boston's Bruins in a trade for Percy Gilchrist, "Bud" Cook, who ought to be a star if only for the reason that he is a brother of "Bun" and Mill, and another smart youth, who originally hailed from Ottawa, Ted Saunders. If Boucher didn't get the better of the deal with Art Ross in yesterday's meeting, it is all over him in the matter of quantity. Frankie Boucher, brother of George, is very keen on "Bud" Cook and recommended him to the Ottawa manager.

Tacoman Will Try Victoria-Angeles Swim Next Sunday

For the first time in the history of swimming in Victoria, an international swimmer, from Canada to the United States, will be attempted from here on Sunday, when Roland Tegmeier, husky Tacoma marathoner, will dive into the icy waters of the Straits from Gonzales Point at 11 o'clock in the morning in an effort to prove that the much talked of crossing to Port Angeles is possible.

It is possible that Tegmeier may be accompanied by Paul Chateau, France, another long-distance swimmer who has performed with him in eastern marathons.

Fresh from participation in the Toronto National Exhibition fifteen-mile grind and the W. R. Hearst 610,000 marathon at Lake Michigan, Tegmeier arrives in Victoria this morning to complete plans for his attempt, which was announced here during a previous visit some weeks ago, prior to his leaving for Chicago.

According to the swimmer, the only thing that will stop him now is extremely rough water. He states he is prepared to start if the seas are not running too heavy at he has experienced rough water before.

EXPERIENCED MARATHONER

Tegmeier is widely known in aquatic circles over the North American continent. He has taken part in many leading marathons in the United States and Canada, his mode of travel being hitch hiking.

His experiences provide more thrill than an adventure book and to listen to his travels evoke realizations they are only possible for the fittest. Tegmeier weighs just over the 205-pound mark stripped and stands six feet tall.

He is not making the swim the hope that he will receive a big prize for it, but is merely anxious to prove that it can be done. He stated he has made investigations, the east and feels sure that if the swim can be accomplished, financial backing will be secured to promote an annual international event. The aspect of the annual gathering here last year, the swimming from Canada to the United States has aided considerably in arousing interest in the marathon.

The direct route from Victoria to United States is slightly over 40 miles. Tegmeier, however, would cover between thirty and forty if he made the other side.

TO COVER GREAT DISTANCE

Starting as he plans at 11 o'clock, Tegmeier will swim against a flood tide for two hours, which, it is estimated, will carry him down towards Chatham Island. After this the ebb tide will set in, and he will have to swim against it for the remainder of the trip to receive the full benefit of the ebb tide which will sweep him down the Straits towards Port Angeles.

While in Tacoma, en route to Victoria, Tegmeier learned that Henry Foss, manager of the Foss Tug and Tugboat Company of Tacoma, would probably accompany the swimmer in his yacht, Thea Foss. This, however, has not been confirmed, but Mr. Foss is expected here within the next day or two accompanied by Chateau.

Several local yacht owners have intimated they will make the trip across the Straits with the two swimmers and will witness the start.

Arrangements for the swim are being facilitated through the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Victoria and Vancouver Yacht Clubs.

Farrell is assisting Mr. Tegmeier in completing his plans here.

During his performance at Lake Ontario, Tegmeier dropped out after the prize winners had landed, this being a ruling of the officials that no swimmers remain in the water after prize money has been won. In Lake Michigan he completed thirteen of the fifteen miles, being handicapped after losing his pilot boat.

Chateau, who is a violinist of note by profession, also competed at Chicago.

MUCH TALKED OF SWIM

The Victoria-Port Angeles swim has been suggested for many years, but has never been attempted. Tegmeier points out that such a large other couple in the world of a similar nature has been tried, including the English Channel, and feels that if the stretch is conquered an annual swim here would prove of considerable attraction.

For this reason the event is being supported by the Publicity Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce, although Tegmeier is the original exponent of the proposition.

PAT RILEY AND THYE IN DRAW

Pat Riley and Thye, lived up to his reputation yesterday evening when he bumped and mailed Ted Thye, Portland, to give out a draw in one half of a double main event on the wrestling card here yesterday evening.

Thye won the first fall in the fourth round with a series of shoulder butts and a flying arm lock. Riley earned a draw in the next frame with a series of flying hooks and a body press.

In the other half of the double bill Howard Cantonwine, Iowa, won with two straight falls from Harry Kent, Portland.

Day Is Unlucky For Operators As Wheat Prices Go Downward

Canadian Press—Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Wheat prices took on a regular Friday the 13th appearance on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, as selling from southern and local interests pulled out stoppings and sent quotations down to close with net losses of 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents.

In line with a five-cent decline in Chicago, general liquidation swept the market and little resistance was offered to the movement. Final figures were only slightly up from bottom levels.

Stocks Break Badly As U.S. Conversion Plan Is Publicized

Associated Press—New York, Oct. 13.—Stocks broke today coincident with a sharp slump in grain and deflationary interpretations placed on the administration's Liberty Loan conversion plan. While some of the utilities delayed resistance, losses of two to six or more points were suffered by the metals, chemicals and specialties. The close was heavy.

Transfers, however, approximated only 1,200,000 shares. Equities sagged moderately during the early hours and some support was accorded those issues which might benefit under a "sound money" programme. Operators who had gambled on drastic currency inflation apparently turned their backs on the theory of monetary expansion had been shelved with the announcement of the $2,000,000,000 low-interest refunding proposal. Broken raised margin requirements sharply on some of the more volatile stocks. Wheat, corn, oats and other cereals lost about the full day's limit. Chicago Cotton was heavily sold. The dollar soared in foreign exchange dealings.

Hail the Wise Man Who Let His Friends And Neighbors Pick Out His Wife for Him. Never Will He Lie Awake Wondering Why He Did It: He Can Always Blame His Advisers

THE WORLD'S great altruist and optimist has appeared in a California man, who has permitted his friends and neighbors to pick out his wife for him. This was accomplished by the unimpassioned Romeo, lining up the seven candidates for his heart and hand and permitting the winner of the wedding ring to be elected by popular vote.

Furthermore, apparently the best woman won, for the crowd selected a fifty-two-year-old widow as the bride for the fifty-eight-year-old bachelor bridegroom which, as far as human judgment can go in matrimonial matters, seems an almost inspired choice, and got the wedding of to a running start.

This very unusual marriage is notable in several ways. For one thing, it answers the riddle that always keeps the guests whispering at every wedding, "What did he see in her that made him marry her?" "For Heaven's sake, why do you suppose she picked THAT out for a husband?"

It is a conundrum that is never guessed, for nobody ever knows why any man and woman can marry the ones they do. Nor, for that matter, are many of us much wiser about how it happened that we got our own yokemates, and when we try to figure out why we are united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Eliza instead of Hannah or to Thomas instead of Jeremiah, we are confronted with a problem that we cannot explain even to ourselves. It is just that way and that's all we know about it.

But here is a man who will never have to lie awake at night wondering why he did it, because he didn't do it. His neighbors wished his wife on him. Also, they saved him the trouble of making a choice, which is one of the reasons why many men never marry at all. They are so torn between the counter-claims of different women who attract them in diverse ways that they cannot make up their minds which to take for keeps and so dilly-dally along until old bachelorhood overtakes them.

Mamie fires their fancy. Sara comes up to their ideal. Flapper Betty is so cute and has such a way with her. Staid Jeannine has a master hand at the gas range. Violet is a living picture that would be so easy on the eyes. Juliette has such a comfortable fortune in gilt-edged securities. They could be happy with either dear charmer were 't other dear charmer away, but with one charmer pulling one way and the other charmer pulling the other, they are hopelessly befuddled and doomed to celibacy unless, like the hero of our story, some one settles the matter by saying, "Take this woman. She is what you need, and God bless you, my children."

But what makes this marriage really historic is that it has put into actual execution a theory that most of us have entertained, but that we never expected to see tried out--that of having the general public pass upon the eligibility of a man and woman and the suitability of a marriage.

A lot of us have felt that if in every community there was a sort of matrimonial advisory committee that could lend people a helping hand in picking out their mates it would do much toward stopping divorce and promoting happy and successful marriages. Especially if it had a strong veto power that could prevent the marriages of those obviously headed for destruction, such as girls marrying drunkards to reform them, and old men espousing gold-digging flappers.

The idea is, of course, that while boys and girls are suffering from the temporary madness we call love, their eyes are blinded and their judgment clouded so that they are not able to see the real character and disposition of those whom they are anxious to marry, nor to form a clear and dispassionate opinion as to the kind of wives and husbands these said parties will make, nor even if the said parties heretofore mentioned are really what they want in the mates with whom they propose to spend the next forty or fifty years.

It is while suffering from these hallucinations that poor and ambitious young men wreck their futures by marrying selfish, spoiled, pampered girls who do not know how to do a thing on earth but spend money and amuse themselves; learned, cultivated men with intellectual tastes marry pretty little morons who have never even read a sixth best seller; domestic-minded men marry women who hate home and who are set on careers; widowers with a household of children marry debutantes younger than their own daughters; girls elope with their chauffeurs; girls marry men who can't even make a living for themselves; girls marry men who are gamblers and rouses and philanderers; girls marry men with whom they have not a taste nor habit nor thought in common.

These mismatings, we have said, could be avoided if a matrimonial committee could pick out the husbands and wives people should have, instead of the ones they thought they wanted until they got 'em home and found out that they didn't suit their needs at all. And, curiously enough, this is one case where the experiment has been tried it appears to have worked out successfully.

For what wife could be more suitable to an old bachelor, doubtless with cranky ways, than a widow who had learned how to manage men in her first marriage, and who is far more adaptable than any young girl or spinster could possibly be?

And, anyway, what fun that man's friends and neighbors must have had in picking out his wife for him! It must have been SOME picnic.

Men Who Found America

JOHN CABOT

During the Middle Ages the cities of Genoa and Venice were famed for their sailors, and this fame continued until after the year 1500. For that reason, seamen from Genoa and Venice were called into the service of such countries as Spain, Portugal and England.

On a bright May morning, in the year 1497, the Venetian and his sons set sail from the harbor at Bristol. They had only one small ship, the "Matthew," which was manned by eighteen sailors. Clearing the coast of Ireland, the three-crew sailed northward for a short space, then westward.

On a bright May morning, in the year 1497, the Venetian and his sons set sail from the harbor at Bristol. They had only one small ship, the "Matthew," which was manned by eighteen sailors. Clearing the coast of Ireland, the three-crew sailed northward for a short space, then westward.

The first land seen by Cabot is believed to have been either Newfoundland or the coast of Labrador. We are told that the land was named "Prima Terra Vista" meaning "First Land Seen," and that the discovery was followed by "300 leagues" of coastwise sailing.

When Cabot returned to England late in July or early in August, he reported that he had found the coast of Japan or China. He did not realize that he had reached, or else had been close to, a continent twice as large as Europe, the continent which we now call North America.

As a reward for the voyage, the King of England gave Cabot a reward of ten pounds (not quite $20).

The leaflet called "Marvels of the Sky" shows sizes of the planets and their distance from the sun. It tells about Donati's comet and other wonders. If you want a copy, without charge, send a stamped, return-envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

After a good voyage up the coast, the Ss. Ruth Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Lines, reached the Rithet pier at 12:30 o'clock this morning from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Capt. Fred Nyrom reported an uneventful voyage.

Several of the passengers disembarking here transferred immediately to the Ss. Princess Elizabeth and proceeded to Vancouver. The Ruth continued to Seattle at 2:15 o'clock.

Among the passengers leaving the Ruth here were Mrs. J. Anderson, Miss Lois Anderson, Miss Eleanor Boyce, Miss Melba Anderson, Mrs. Mary Cava-

Charles A. Lindbergh, to whom much has happened since his Atlantic flight in 1927, yesterday back to Crofton where he was on his arrival in England from six years ago.

After inspecting the Imperial ways port he drove off to join family before the public knew he here. Mrs. Lindbergh did not accompany him.

It was understood she remained here sister in Wales.
